Great Britain wants to buy Alberta eggs but, before that market can be supplied, Alberta producers must be in position to guarantee in advance, that stipulated volumes of eggs will be available at stated times.

In other words, Alberta's surplus egg supplies must be coordinated to meet the demand of the British Empire. Furthermore, methods of grading must be improved.

Last spring, representative poultrymen met in Edmonton and asked the Department of Trade and Industry to help them prepare an egg marketing plan. They set up a working committee which drafted the plan and are now ready to submit it to egg producers of the province for their approval.

The plebiscite will take place during the week of November 25 at meetings which have been organized in more than 100 centres. The Gleichen meeting will take place on Thursday November 28th. These meetings will be addressed by poultrymen who will explain the plan and, at the close of each meeting a vote will be taken, all poultrymen with 50 birds or more being entitled to cast a ballot.

THE WEEK IN EDMONTON

What was probably the quietest civic election in Edmonton's history passed off last week with the return of the political slate. A record was created in the return of Mayor John W. Fry for his fourth term. But so apacitic was the public it was possible to find people everywhere who had "forgotten to vote."

Another record was broken this week in the number of pleasure car licenses issued in Alberta with 2500 more licenses issued than at this time last year and 2780 more than the whole of last year. The total for 1940 is 91,000. With truck licenses, the total has reached 113,000, compared with 112,629 for the whole of 1939. Drivers' licenses, too, have increased. Up to November 13, 146,660 had been issued, compared with 137,000 for the whole of 1939.

University students who join the active service forces will have their Students' Union fees refunded.

Annual Old Timers' Banquet Will Be Splendid Social Affair

The program for the entertainment at the Old Timers' banquet is almost completed according to W. Sturminster who has charge of this part of the big doings on the evening of Friday November 29th.

The guest speaker will be Brigadier Harve, V.C., officer commanding Military District No. 10. Another speaker will be Don McKinnon, M.L.A., for this riding.

Harold W. Riley secretary of the South Alberta Pioneers and Old Timers' Association will also be present and will address the meeting. There will likely be some other speakers present.

Besides speeches there will be various musical numbers and community singing. The banquet will start sharp at 6.30 p.m. in order to be over before 9 o'clock when the dance will commence with the famous old time orchestra of Art Bremner's leading the way.

B. Passt, C.M.G., D.S.O., L.E.D., V.D., on military duty as district officer commanding M.D. No. 4. Mr. Cadieux has been with the Canadian Pacific investigation department since 1913. He has been assistant chief since 1925.

Despite the drain on young students caused by courses leading to Royal Air Force positions, the joint course in farm mechanics which was announced has attracted more than sufficient to complete enrolments. It was stated this week. Operating at Stettler and Nanton, the training commenced Nov. 15, and later courses will be given at Hanna, Bassano, Viking and Provost.

Alberta's new health units as community operations, a not some 34,000 Albertans will immediately begin to benefit from membership in what is probably the most successful form of public health effort in Canada today. The new units are Sturgeon, covering the Sturgeon school division and serving 18,000 people including 4,000 children and Rosedale, with headquarters at Olds and Didsbury which serves 16,000 people including 3,000 children. There are six municipal districts in the latter. The Sturgeon unit is organized along lines which it is expected will be followed by others, the school division proving the original field of operation. Records indicate a great saving in human life especially among infants in health unit organizations.

Alberta had all other provinces in the production of sheep wool this year, the total being 4,001,000 pounds, it is announced by the Dominion bureau of statistics. Production for all Canada is estimated at 15,560,000 pounds from 1860,500 sheep. This year's average weight per fleece was lower in Alberta, but the number of shearings much higher.

THE RUM ISSUE

BY FRED JONES
This Column Given to News of the Gleichen Branch of the Canadian Legion

Well another Armistice Day has come and gone and we are carrying on where we left off twenty-two years ago. The fact that the job has to be done all over again is no reflection on the men to whose memory we have just paid our respects.

The boys on the actual fighting front encountered whatever obstacles came in their way with a grim efficiency unequalled anywhere considering the conditions under which they were accomplished.

I was doing sentry go on the Kansasian dam that day and not a soul came along to inquire after the condition of my throat. Truly, it was a case of "water, water everywhere and not a drop to drink." I did not realize how dry I really was until I happened to cough and the sentry box became filled with a cloud of fine dust. I was in the same fix as the Duke of Wellington who prayed for rain or Blucher only I prayed for rain or Tommy.

About all the British fleet needs to do now is anchor a dummy battleship at every strategic point and the Nazis will scuttle their ships as soon as these dummies are sighted.

The difference between British naval tradition and the German is shown by the Revenge and the Jervis Bay. These armed merchantmen had about as much chance as the proverbial snowball in a certain northern region. Nevertheless they chose death and glory rather than adopt the alternative of scuttling so popular among the Nazis. And right there the difference between the Germans and Britain with her allies. When Blitz-krigiers at last run up against men who fight instead of women and children they will Kammerde as of old.

By all accounts the Battery and the Legion and all the rest turned out for service. It seems to be Armistice Day luck that the weather should nearly always be cold at that time. I read too that G. S. G. Elliot Evans wounded last Post and Beville and wish to congratulate him on being able to do so. This is a difficult performance which is well appreciated by soldiers on account of the strain of working under critical eyes of others. An experienced trumpeter will usually cheer for this ceremony in the army and it is considered an honor.

The patron saint or whatever you like to call it of this war is Yehudi We always had the same guy and expect every army since the beginning of time had him too. He is the guy who writes your number on the shell you are to get and guides your bullet when it shoots straight and in fact is given credit for everything that happens not under your control. Yehudi must have hung a few extra stars out at Tarnovo so that the Royal Naval planes could see Muscovite's life better.

The Calgary Power Company has completed the line from Stettler to the Interment Camp and the overtaxed plant at the camp can get a well earned rest.

Submitting protest resolutions against present rail-grading of hogs 29 prominent northern Alberta hog raisers would up a meeting in Edmonton by declaring a new method of optional grading was in the best interests of the industry. The resolutions were forwarded to Hon. J. G. Gardiner, federal minister of agriculture. The late Alberta minister, Hon. D. B. Mallen, had opposed the new method earlier.

Compromise Required

So many diverse interests throughout the Dominion will be affected if all or any of the recommendations of the Rowell-Strover report on Dominion-provincial relations are implemented in legislation at an adjourned sitting of the House of Commons early in the New Year, that a spirit of give and take will have to prevail at the intervening conference of provincial premiers in Ottawa in January, otherwise there will be little chance of any benefits being derived arising out of these parties.

Some of the proposals of the Commission, as for instance those suggesting that the Federal Government assume the bonded indebtedness of the provinces and the full burden of the Dominion debt, are so far reaching, that it is the duty of all public corporate bodies, such as municipal councils, as well as citizens generally to study the report and its implications, so that they will be well informed on the issues involved and be able to give direction to their representatives in time to ensure that all interests are protected as far as possible.

It is doubtful if any document of such great importance has been submitted for the consideration of the people of this country since Confederation than the Rowell-Strover report. It proposes, in effect, to change the entire financial set up of the federal and provincial governments, including such plans as to segregate the fields of direct and indirect taxation which is designed to solve the dual income tax problem and involved with it the provision for sources of income for the provinces.

Another vexed problem which implementation of the report is intended to solve is that of succession duties. While the Dominion has not yet evidenced any intention to derive revenues from this source, having left that field intact to the provinces to date, it is generally admitted in legal circles that Ottawa could do so if it desired.

Even though the Dominion has not encroached on succession duties, existing provincial legislation is unfair to the western provinces inasmuch as it enables the provinces of Ontario and Quebec to tap a great deal of revenue which properly should belong to the western provinces and the maritimes, simply because head offices of most corporations are located in those two eastern provinces. This is one of the problems, referred to in the report, which probably can only be settled by approaching the question in a spirit of "sweet reasonableness."

Widened Influences

These and other proposals in the report are of such far-reaching importance and deal with such fundamental and all-embracing questions of public finance that their influence is bound to extend to every municipality, every corporation and every individual throughout the Dominion. Hence the importance that the proposals be thoroughly understood, not only by those directly engaged in negotiations but by everybody.

Municipal financing, which has in recent years imposed a tremendous burden, present and future, upon the taxpayers, is involved in the recommendations embodied in the report, even though not dealt with directly. It is, therefore, important that municipal authorities study and understand the report, its proposals, and its probable effects upon their future ability to finance and take care of the requirements of the local taxpayers.

During the past few years, much of the provincial debt has been incurred as a result of the necessity for furnishing relief to its citizens hard hit by the depression. If the federal government is now to assume the financial obligations incurred on that account, the municipalities, no doubt, will expect that some measure of this relief will be passed on to them, since they also have had to pledge future payments from their taxpayers for the same reason, and this particular aspect of the report is of importance, though the rural municipalities have had to incur obligations on the same account.

To The Provinces

By reason of their relationship to the provincial government which set them up, the municipalities will have to deal with their respective provincial authorities and it will be as well for them to make their requirements known before the pending Ottawa conference, so that provincial representatives will be properly posted on the municipal situation before undertaking discussions.

It has been suggested that these problems of inter-provincial finance should be taken up and dealt with without waiting for the termination of the war in the interests of unity within. It is to be hoped that the discussions that will be precipitated before agreements can be reached will not provoke a session but will bring about a better understanding of the problems faced in different units of the Dominion. If this is to be achieved it can only be done by the several provinces tackling this gigantic task in a spirit of compromise.

No Lack Of Soap

Easy For Men In Canadian Forces To Keep Clean

It seems lack of soap would be a poor excuse for not washing if you're in the army, navy or air force.

Five hundred tons of soap—equivalent to more than 5,000 three-ounce cakes—has been purchased for the armed forces in the last three months, the department of munitions and supply reported at Ottawa.

Here are a few other means purchased by the department in that period: 140,000 razor sets, 42,000 barbers, 12,000 clasp knives, 20,000 sets of forks, knives and spoons, 100,000 water bottles, 50,000 bedsteads, 75,000 mattresses and the same number of pillows.

Wool Grading

To Be Compulsory In Canada After January 1st

Compulsory grading of all Canadian unwashed fleece wool will go into effect next January 1, an official of the agriculture department said.

Grading will show each producer's wool is made up of certain quantities of various types of wool are available for military and other purposes, he said, and show the wool administrator, David C. Dick, exactly what quantities must be imported.

No innovation to the wool industry, grading has been in effect for nearly 25 years on voluntary basis, the official said. About half of Canada's wool has been sold through the Canadian Co-operative Wool Growers' Association, which has used the grading system now being made compulsory.

All wool will be graded within 14 days after it leaves the producers' premises and identify of each producer's wool must be maintained until it has been graded. Then a statement will be sent to the producer designating the grade of each producer's wool and the amount of each grade.

Grading will be done by the market. The wool will be sold in bulk, in partment or in some large establishments, by graders employed by the market. Their work will be inspected regularly by the department.

Visitors Ask For Exhibit

Believe Princess' Dolls Would Boost U.S. Fund For Refugees

Numerous visitors from the United States visiting the Princess' dolls in Toronto have asked that the dolls be exhibited across the border, Miss M. Beath, in charge of the exhibit, reports.

"We know the feeling of the people across the border toward British people as war refugees," is the gist of their comment, "and we are sure that these beautiful dolls will bring huge sums to the Refugee Fund in New York alone. Please send them."

Whether or not the requests can be complied with, it is impossible to say at present, Miss Beath stated. Insurance difficulties alone might prevent such an enterprise; but the matter will be given careful consideration.

The dolls, property of the British Princesses, Elizabeth and Margaret Rose, were sent to Canada by Her Majesty Queen Elizabeth to help raise funds for war refugees.

Small Community In Saskatchewan

Rahool 8500 For Bren Gun

Orkney is a little corner of 120 persons or so down in the southwest corner of Saskatchewan. It is a little community, but it is big in the appreciation of the issues at stake in this war, and big in its desire to help win the war.

Service Overseas, J. G. Taylor, secretary-treasurer of the village of Orkney, and he tells, with pride, of the Board of Trade and Curling Club in that community going together recently to put on a carnival which yielded enough to pay for a Bren machine-gun for Canada's war effort. The sum raised was $500. It's mighty pleased the people of this district are," reports the municipal secretary.

"They put it over in great style, no one begrudged buying tickets, and everyone turned out for Orkney's war effort carnival."

This contribution to the winning of the war is the most striking considering that the Orkney area has been one of the hardest hit of Saskatchewan districts of recent years in drought visitation—Regina Leader-Post.

Radio Mechanics Wanted

Men Now Needed For Ground

When we said last week that there was a great demand for radio men we had reference to Canadian needs. Since then a request has been received from England that radio mechanics, needed for ground service, be recruited in Canada in the R.C.A.F.

These men will receive regular R.C.A.F. rates of pay, or $2 per week plus $35 monthly if married, and $12 monthly for each child up to and including two.

They will have the rank of Leading Aircraftman, Group B, and applicants must be between ages of 18 and 40, have high school entrance or equivalent as an educational standard, be Canadian born, and must pass a trade test in Toronto before acceptance. When selected they will be kept at Training Depot, Canadian National Exhibition Park, Toronto, for about a month for inoculation and some drill and then sent overseas as fast as possible.

Last week Jack McArthur's barn east of town, was a home to the ground, containing 400 bushels of feed, a calf and a lot full of green feed. The origin of the fire is unknown as it was on the previous Monday morning that he was in the barn with a lantern and as he does not smoke the only way he can account for the fire is that some of the men during threshing may have left matches in the barn and they may have caused them. The fire was discovered at noon by neighbors who telephoned to Mrs. McArthur.

THE WORLD OF WHEAT

It seems fitting indeed that Great Britain and the Greeks should be standing side by side defending democracy against the common enemy.

Democracy, or those principles of freedom and liberty which insist that the individual citizen is superior to the State, and shall not be merely the pawn of a monarch or of a dictator, was first invented by Solon the Greek in the year 594 B.C. and was actually put into practice as a system of Government in Athens— with a deliberative assembly which sat continuously throughout the year; design laws and to govern the country in 600 B.C. This system of democracy was eventually lost by the Greeks, but the Greeks did work it back for the common people when King King was obliged to sign the great Magna Carta at Runnymede on June 15th, 1215.

Today these dearly won rights and liberties are again in danger, and it seems more than a coincidence that the Greeks, who originally discovered democracy and put it practically to work, and the English who restored it to the world, should be fighting side by side to maintain these precious rights of the individual and fighting moreover on the very same Grecian soil and seas where democracy was won originally by the Greeks in 594 B.C., or 2,443 years ago.

Partners often have occasion to find out how much grain is contained in a granary or bin. It is also useful to know how large a bin must be to hold a given amount of wheat. The necessary information is included here so the reader should cut this out of the paper and keep it. The first step is to find the cubical contents of the bin. For square or rectangular bins, the number of cubic feet can be found by multiplying the length x width x depth. For round bins multiply the radius x radius x 3.14 x depth (the radius is one-half the diameter).

For example, suppose our bin is 8'x8' and the grain is 6 feet deep, then:
8x8x6=384 cubic feet.
Then if we have a round bin 12 feet in diameter (radius is 6 feet) with the foot depth the radius x radius x 3.14 x depth (the radius is one-half the diameter).
6x6x3.14x6=628.32 cubic feet.
8x8x6=384 cubic feet.
In order to convert cubic feet to measured bushels, it is only necessary to multiply by .84. Therefore, our first bin contains 384x.84=322.56 measured bushels. Our second bin contains 628.32x.84=527.79 measured bushels. This is 1,070.35=1,125.6 measured bushels.

If it is desired to determine the number of bushels in a bin, multiply the figure for measured bushels and divide by the bushels weight (wheat, 60 lb.; barley, 48 lb.; oats, 34 lb.). If in our first example, the grain was wheat weighing 60-lb. per bushel, we would have 322.56x.60=69.6 bushels. Problem: What would be the dimensions of a bin you would build for 2,000 bushels of barley weighing 48-lb. per bushel?
